Spring workshop

- feedback overall was good and most felt that it went well
- the presentation was laid out well
- many commented that they thought it needed more time
- there was a split in comment on audience participation – half liked the audience participation and half thought there was too much
- some felt that the presentation was more directed toward managers
- most complaints were regarding the size and high temperature of the room and wanted more time to socialize
 - o in the future, we will try to change the room layout or get a larger room and try to manage climate control more
 - o next time, we will build in a break mid-session for socializing

Fall workshop ideas

- some of the ideas expressed in the returned surveys were leadership and supervision, library science topics/keeping up-to-date
 - o we could contact the iSchool
- Trevor Dawes – may be a big enough name to draw academic librarians
 - o all his topics seem like they would work for all types of libraries
- Gail Kouame – consumer health information needs
- digital archiving – could do panel
- after discussion, the group thought Trevor Dawes may be the biggest draw
- Lara will contact Mr. Dawes to see if he is available this fall and find out more details
