What were the strong points of the program?

Perspective of an expert

Good, concrete suggestions

Suggestions for readings

Practical and applicable

Great information

Tolley's perspective is invaluable. We got to benefit from all the work she has done so we can fast-track our own work of learning this topic.

Excellent interactive activities

I appreciate all of the online resources and books that were shared. Shared practices to enhance self-care were also great.

What were the weaknesses of the program?

8 responses

Virtual programs aren't ideal for dialog.

There are some questions that are just unanswerable...

I didn't see a lot of actionable items. To me, it felt more like a literature review.

None

I'm not sure I'm in position to implement the changes, or to influence those that are.

This is such an important topic to me. I would have loved a retreat, multi-day workshop to get into it in depth. I realize that is not INCOL's remit, so I'll work with the many resources Tolley gave us.

A little disorganized, but not discouragingly so

Not your fault at all, but notely was difficult to refresh frequently.

COMMENTS or SUGGESTIONS about the program?

Maybe more clarity about how to apply the information covered in the presentation.

Beautifully planned and executed. Kudos to Erin and all.

Thank you so much for all of the information!

If people feel they are interested in NVC (Marshall Rosenberg's method of nonviolent communication) there are a few groups and practitioners in Spokane area. NVC is a particular interest of mine as well, though I couldn't teach it. There are also lots of recordings of full his trainings which are free online and a free version of the audiobook. He passed away a few years ago. - Janine.Odlevak@scc.spokane.edu

The author, Jason Reynolds, would be amazing.

What were the strong points of the program?

6 responses

I appreciate the stories that were used to emphasize and/or illustrate the content.

it was all useful

We don't know what others have been through. Be kind.

Excellent presentation and the information is useful and timely!

I appreciated learning about the 6 principles and how I can apply all that was discussed to teens.

I liked the interactive aspects where we were able to take the ACES and in the earlier workshop the workplace safety quiz.

What were the weaknesses of the program?

6 responses

My own brain fog made it hard to go from topic to topic. The agenda was good, but a more detailed outline would also have been helpful for me.

nothing was particularly weak

I can't think of anything

Only perhaps the large size and impersonal nature of zoom meetings made participants less willing to participate fully.

COMMENTS or SUGGESTIONS about the program?

3 responses

I appreciate the acknowledgment that doing this kind of work in this way is difficult and requires self-care, particularly if we want to keep doing it.

Great program!

Thank you so much!

I've been doing some work on my own (very porous) boundaries and, after attending this workshop, I've realized that I need to pay attention to maintaining the empathy and consideration that I've had for patrons in the past. Being strong in myself, being caring with others and holding people accountable are not mutually exclusive. But it might be hard. Hence the need for intentional self-care. :-)

A speaker about LGBTQ issues and programs would be really beneficial.
