What were the strong points of the program?

16 responses

The game and the discussion

Content, structure and techniques to engage audience via zoom

Being in a safe, inclusive space and learning something new

Having a topic expert to present! And a fun presenter.

The presenter was very knowledgeable about the topics

Engagement

Since I missed half of it I don't feel I can comment.

The Vocacbulary section

Exploring beyind LGBTQ with m/f/x

Kahoot + encouragement to participate

key terms of LQBQ community

I particularly liked how it emphasized that we shouldn't put our misunderstandings or confusions on others but educate ourselves.

The presenter was very good.

The presenter and online activities. Vanessa did a very good job "working" the virtual set-up.

What were the weaknesses of the program?

None

Would be nice to be able to tell presenter how to remove the black boxes on the shared screen

I didn't think there were any weaknesses!

Fast pace, but I don't think I'd want it any longer!

I felt it could've been expounded upon with more specific language talk (for those of us newly learning) and ways to have inclusive programming.

Light on detail

Since I missed half of it I don't feel I can comment.

Time for conversation.

This program was pretty tight in terms of quality

Some of the activities were very familiar. Maybe some new techniques would be helpful. Just to keep things lively.

It's hard for me to feel safe on Zoom to openly discuss ideas.

I could have handled another hour or two of learning - a lot cover!

COMMENTS or SUGGESTIONS about the program?

Thank you! I really enjoyed this program. In a troubling time in our country, it was wonderful to be able to talk about the LGBTQIA community and come away having learned something.

I'd really like to take future LGBTQ+ trainings about specific ideas for programming and events.

I had to miss the second have but felt the 1st half was educational for me.

I think this is a very important program, and I'm so grateful it was offered.

It really was a great presentation. I learned a couple things I didn't know before which was nice. I'd like to be put on an email list for future LGBTQ+ trainings please. carnold@cdalibrary.org
